

NSW DOHTA Executive Committee Member

Baden graduated in 1999 from Westmead and commenced practice on the Central Coast. He worked in a number of clinics and became involved in Oral Health Promotion initiating and implementing the very successful Tiny Tots Teeth campaign. In 2005 Baden took up a position in the Northern Territory based in Darwin but with rural and remote rotations working in Aboriginal communities across the territory.

He has since returned to New South Wales and now works full time in South Eastern Sydney Illawarra Area Health Service based at the Nowra Dental Clinic. Baden lives with his wife Nikki in Gerringong. Baden has successfully gained a place at the University of Newcastle to commence study in the Bachelor of Oral Health program
